A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE KNOXVILLE SYMPHONY LEAGUE

In 1952 eleven charter members formed the Knoxville Symphony Guild to further the financial support of the Orchestra. Guild activities included social functions such as coffees, luncheons, and silver teas; cultural events, including music appreciation courses; the operation of educational concerts, attended yearly by thousands of students from the area; and the giving of musical scholarships for deserving young students.

Because of the commitment of Guild members and the support of the community, fundraising projects enabled the Women's Guild to contribute substantially to the maintenance fund of the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra and Youth Orchestra, the latter of which the Guild founded in 1974, with the guidance of Dr. and Mrs. James H. Marable. In 1980, the Women's Guild of the Knoxville Symphony Society changed its name to "Knoxville Symphony League."

In 1984, money raised during the World's Fair Show House was placed in an endowment fund for the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra. In 2007 this fund reached one million dollars. The interest from this fund is available to the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra to use for operating expenses while the principal remains untouched.

Various types of fundraising events have been successfully undertaken through the years: balls, benefit dinner parties, auctions, fashion shows, show houses, and a community events calendar.

Membership in the Knoxville Symphony League is open to any person interested in supporting the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra by promoting season ticket sales and by raising funds to assist the Knoxville Symphony Society in its goal to maintain a balanced budget for the Orchestra. The entire membership is encouraged to participate in these important activities.

WE MAKE MUSIC

Knoxville Symphony Orchestra History & Organizational Profile

The mission of the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra is to develop and sustain a symphony orchestra of the highest artistic standards and to reach East Tennessee audiences of all ages by providing excellence in musical performance and education programs.

When Bertha Walburn Clark first performed with her string quartet in 1910, she laid the foundation for what would become the Southeast's oldest continuing orchestra and a pillar of East Tennessee's cultural life – the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra. Formally established in 1935, the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra began a period of significant growth in 1947 when David Van Vector assumed dual roles as Chairman of the University of Tennessee's Department of Fine Arts and the KSO's Music Director. For the next 26 years, Van Vector attracted many outstanding musicians to the community and nurtured the Orchestra's burgeoning reputation for excellence.

In 1973, under the director of Arpad Joo, the Orchestra began compensating all musicians for their services and required each player to audition. Zoltan Rozsnyai took the KSO to a new level of professionalism in 1978 when he hired 16 full-time string players who eventually formed the nucleus of the Knoxville Symphony's Chamber Orchestra.

In 1985, Maestro Kirk Trevor joined the orchestra as Music Director and Conductor. During his 18-year tenure the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra was recognized as one of the finest regional orchestras in the United States. He broadened the musical spectrum of the KSO by adding the Pops and the Chamber series to the orchestra's regular season, as well as the highly-acclaimed Clayton Holiday Concerts.

An international search to replace Maestro Trevor brought Lucas Richman to the position of Music Director in 2003. He brings an exciting background in conducting and composing to the KSO having been recently honored at the annual Broadcast Music Incorporated Film and Television Awards Gala in Los Angeles.

18. If the League committee handling the event determines that they want and/or that it is necessary for KSO staff to attend, then the League issues the invitation and assumes payment at fair market value for the staff member(s)' attendance.

If the Society determines that staff should and/or would like to attend the event, then the Society and/or the employee makes payment at fair market value for the staff member(s)' attendance.

When the KSO Music Director and the Society Executive Director attend League events, by invitation or by choice, their attendance is always complimentary.

If payment for staff attendance at League events is not deemed complimentary or assumed by the League, then the Society staff member shall personally pay for attendance directly to the League. After attending the event, the the employee may turn in an expense report to the Society's Finance Office so that the Society will have proper documentation of approval of the attendance expense for business purposes.

Any exceptions to the above policy must be jointly agreed upon by the President of the Knoxville Symphony League and the Executive Director of the Knoxville Symphony Society.

19. To change the date or location of any of the three major Knoxville Symphony League fundraisers, the motion must be taken to the Executive Board. Upon their approval, it will then be submitted to the regular Board.

Continuing the orchestra's tradition of artistic excellence, he has focused additionally on the education and community partnerships programs and created a new Music and Wellness initiative that has been recognized nationally by the League of American Orchestras. He has also reinstated Family Concerts featuring his own twist on the idea with Picardy Penguin, an animated character who appears on a screen above the orchestra and teaches children about classical music. The upcoming 2010-2011 season marks Maestro Richman's eighth year with the KSO.

The KSO performs a wide range of services for Knoxville and communities throughout East Tennessee, Southeast Kentucky and Southwest Virginia and annually performs for over 200,000 people, through classical, pops, family and educational concerts. Each season, in addition to the KSO's main classical series of eight concert pairs, the KSO also presents five Chamber Classics concerts, four Pops concerts, family concerts, four special holiday concerts with full orchestra, more than 150 in-school ensemble lecture/demonstrations and a number of community concerts in the surrounding region.

The Education Program is the primary vehicle through which the KSO reaches out to a broad segment of the community. Over 20,000 students, including inner-city youth and students with disabilities, throughout 19 counties in East Tennessee are served through programs in schools, through Young People's concerts with the full orchestra and through training in the Knoxville Symphony Youth Orchestras. KSO ensembles participate in area festivals, perform in arts magnet schools, in healthcare facilities and public libraries bringing live music to those who are unable to attend KSO concerts.

The oldest continuously performing symphony orchestra in the southeastern United States, the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra maintains its status as one of the finest regional orchestras in the nation.

JOIN US!

The Knoxville Symphony League invites you to join us in our efforts to support, encourage and promote the growth and development of the Knoxville Symphony Orchestra.

Since 1952, the Knoxville Symphony League has contributed to the financial support of the KSO.

As a member, you will receive:

- NOTES, the Knoxville Symphony League monthly newsletter

As a member of the Knoxville Symphony League, you will have the opportunity to join with other enthusiastic volunteers dedicated to keeping classical music playing in East Tennessee by working on a number of committees and activities.

EDUCATION

The Education Committee works on activities encouraging young people to become involved in symphonic music: five Knoxville Symphony Youth Orchestras composed of young people 7 to 18, Young People's Concerts, Family Concerts and an annual Concerto Competition. Join us by ushering at a concert or providing refreshments for young musicians.

ENDOWMENT

In 1984, the Knoxville Symphony League started an endowment fund that enables the Symphony to receive annual interest income for operating expenses. In 2007, the principal amount in this fund reached $1million! Join us in working toward the second million.

OPENING NIGHT GALA

Each fall, the Knoxville Symphony League celebrates the opening of the Masterworks and concert season by hosting an after-concert event. Join us in planning and attending this annual event.

SYMPHONY BALL

Each year, the Knoxville Symphony League hosts a black tie ball with dining, dancing and live and silent auctions featuring unique items for the discriminating bidder. Join us in planning, securing items for the auctions, decorating and attending this elegant event.

SHOW HOUSE

Each spring, the Knoxville Symphony League presents a new or lovingly restored home featuring the work of local designers, artists and craftsmen. Join us at the Show House by selling tickets, acting as room hostess, working in the Tea Room or Gift Shop.

ELEGANT DINING

Each year, the Knoxville Symphony League Elegant Dining series offers a wonderful smorgasbord of luncheons, teas, and dinners in private homes and restaurants. Join us by hosting and attending Elegant Dining events.

Questions fo FEC Report

Will do.

In regards to the Walmart, since you supplied me with a bunch of descriptions, I need you to go by my list (to the best of your memory) and write down which descriptions were for which purchase line. I have to list each bill specifically & your guess is better than mine. Meaning, I can't list all of those descriptions for each of those totals I listed.

What about the advance auto purchases & ingles?

I'll get you copies of the receipts I have.

All of the Home Depot, Lowes, and Ace charges were for stakes and zip ties for the 4x4 yard signs we put up.

The Wal-Mart charges were for paper/office supplies, phones for the HQ, drinks/refreshments for the HQ, bubble gum/candy for the July 4th parade, Karns Community Parade/Fair, and Grainger County Tomato Festival.

The Target and Garden Ridge charges were for decorations for the booths at The Karns Fair and Tomato Festival.

The gas charges were from filling up tanks for people putting yard signs up (and later taking them down).

John,

I am entering data for the FEC report & I'm working on the credit card statement itemization for the card that you have. Either I need you to send me copies of the receipts so I can figure out the correct itemizations of each purchase or I need you to explain each purchase so I can list the required descriptions on the report. There are alot so hopefully you have copies of the receipts.

6/22 Walmart 3.89
6/23 Home Depot 166.94
6/24 Home Depot 187.50
6/27 Home Depot 47.39
7/3 Home Depot 98.15

In regards to the gas purchases, can you explain those purchases? We have hardly ever had any gas station purchases before so that's why I ask.
